MURPHY'S NATURALS EXPANDS OFFERINGS OF NATURAL BUG REPELLANT

NORTH CAROLINA– Murphy's Naturals, a family-owned, Raleigh-based natural bug repellent company, is establishing itself as an outdoor enthusiast must-have this summer. Murphy's recently launched their most innovative product yet: the Mosquito Dodger. Murphy's Naturals was founded in 2015 by US Navy veteran and outdoor-lover Philip Freeman. Freeman set out to create an effective bug repellent utilizing natural ingredients that protect the outdoors they adore. Murphy's products can be found in retailers including Walmart, Target, Amazon and REI.

The Mosquito Dodger, Murphy's most recent product line addition, is an electronic, essential oil omitting device that creates a 15-foot dome of mosquito protection in outdoor spaces. The oils utilize only natural ingredients: clove, cinnamon, rosemary, lemongrass, peppermint and geranium. The device is portable, rechargeable and flame free.

At the center of Murphy's Natural's success are its standards: proven efficacy is non-negotiable, prioritize quality ingredients and partner responsibly, always abide by ethical practices, choose natural and sustainable whenever possible, use our influencer for doing others good. The last standard (D.O.G Philosophy) drives its community impact and eco-friendly initiatives. Murphy's is officially recognized as a 1% for the planet company and a Certified B Corporation.

The Mosquito Dodger can be purchased for $49.99 in stores and online now.
